Excerpt: .Institutes there is an admirable analysis which gathers out all those things in this commandment that make it common to Israel and to us. The commandment came to them, and it still comes to us, carrying the divine demand on all our adoration, trust, invocation, and thanksgiving. And these affections, attitudes, and acts, rightly understood and spiritually performed, fulfil and satisfy this first and fundamental commandment. The first commandment-- In duties themselves there is an order, which it is of much importance to observe. There is scarcely a greater or more mischievous error than one which has found advocates, even among some who profess a regard to revealed truth; namely, that the principal service which God requires of us, and which of course we need to be much concerned about, is the performance of social duties--the duties of justice and benevolence to our fellow-men....
